RULE SUMMARY

Previously, customer-generators in a utility's net metering program were allowed to offset self-generated energy against energy delivered by the utility and measured by meters subject to the same rate schedule. Since there is no language in statute that requires aggregated meters to be all on the same rate schedule and the Commission received contacts requesting that the requirement in its rules be modified, the Commission opened this rulemaking to consider whether to permit additional forms of meter aggregation under net metering. The rule amendments adopted by the Commission permit aggregation of meters on different rate schedules for net metering purposes subject to the conditions set forth in the rules.
