PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION OF OREGON
AHD REPORT
PUBLIC MEETING DATE: June 23, 2026

REGULAR ___ CONSENT ___ RULEMAKING X EFFECTIVE DATE N/A

DATE: June 8, 2026

TO: Public Utility Commission

FROM: Michael Grant, Administrative Law Judge

THROUGH: Alison Lackey, Chief Administrative Law Judge SIGNED

SUBJECT: RULEMAKING TO AMEND RULES GOVERNING ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION AND MEDIATION (Docket No. AR 679)
OAR Chapter 860 Divisions 002, 021, 034, 036, 037

RECOMMENDATION:

The Administrative Hearings Division (AHD) recommends that the Commission adopt the rules set forth in Attachment 1 to amend and clarify rules governing alternative dispute resolution (ADR) and mediation in Commission proceedings.

DISCUSSION:

Applicable Law

ORS 756.060 authorizes the Commission to adopt rules and regulations related to all statutes administered by the agency.

OAR chapter 860 division 002 contains rules governing the use of ADR in complaint proceedings before the Commission.

Commission rules governing consumer complaints are found in four divisions divided by utility type: division 021—Energy and Large Telecommunication Utilities, division 034—Small Telecommunications Utilities, division 036—Water Utilities, and division 037—Wastewater Utilities.

Background

The Commission adopted rules providing for ADR following its comprehensive investigation into Oregon's implementation of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA).[1] The goal of the ADR rulemaking was to promote voluntary settlement of disputes and reduce litigation before the Commission. Although originally aimed at addressing disputes between utilities and qualifying facilities, the rules were expanded to apply to all complaints filed under ORS 756.500 as well as petitions for declaratory rulings filed under ORS 756.450.

[1] In the Matter of Rulemaking to Address Dispute Resolution for PURPA Contracts, Docket No. AR 629, Order No. 21-087 at 1 (Mar. 25, 2021).

Unfortunately, the Commission and stakeholders experienced difficulty with the ADR rules' application to consumer complaints and declaratory rulings. First, the current rules with strict timelines and requirements for ADR do not lend themselves to consumer complaints, which are generally filed by individual customers without legal representation. Second, declaratory rulings—in which a person can request the Commission to address how it would apply a rule or statute to a set of facts—is not a suitable action for informal dispute resolution. The rules also do not accurately reflect that participation in ADR is voluntary for all parties involved.

The Commission opened this rulemaking, docket AR 679, to reexamine the ADR rules in light of these concerns. Last fall, I reached out to stakeholders and invited them to an informal workshop to discuss whether the rules governing ADR should be amended. To help focus the discussion at the workshop, I attached a set of draft proposed rule amendments for review that identified five key proposed changes:

- Adopt a mediation option for consumer complaints and an ADR resolution process for other complaints
- Eliminate the option for informal resolution of petitions for declaratory rulings
- Require parties to jointly request ADR
- Require parties to file supporting information concurrently to assist the facilitator in the ADR process
- Adopt an expedited but flexible streamlined process for ADR

I held the workshop on September 29, 2025, and answered questions about the draft proposed changes, addressed other possible amendments, and generally discussed how the PUC can improve its rules to better promote informal resolution of disputes. Following the workshop, Northwest Natural, NewSun Energy LLC, and Qualifying Facility (QF) Trade Groups (Renewable Energy Coalition, the Community Renewable Energy Association, and the Oregon Solar + Storage Industries Association) filed written comments.

Based on the comments received during and after the workshop, I made various changes in response to stakeholders’ concerns and suggestions. I then circulated revised proposed rules with those changes and again invited further comment. The QF Trade Groups, Northwest Natural, and Portland General Electric (PGE) filed written comments generally supporting the changes and making additional recommendations.

The Commission published notice of this rulemaking in the Oregon Secretary of State’s May 2026 Oregon Bulletin, and I held a rulemaking hearing on May 26, 2026. The Commission also offered the opportunity to file written comments by June 4, 2026.

Only NW Natural attended the hearing and submitted comments generally supporting the proposed rules. NW Natural appreciated changes made to the proposed rules to address its concerns about confidentiality. As part of its written comments, NW Natural included copies of its comments submitted during the informal phase of this rulemaking.

Discussion

The rules set forth in Attachment 1 clarify the use of ADR and mediation in Commission complaint proceedings.

The proposed rules provide separate ADR and mediation processes for informal dispute resolution. The ADR provisions in Division 002 apply to non-consumer complaints filed under ORS 756.500, while the mediation rules apply to consumer complaint rules (Divisions 021, 034, 036, and 037). The respective rules are designed to address the different circumstances presented by the two types of complaints and will help keep these processes separate to eliminate confusion.

For simplicity, the proposed rules also combine all the ADR processes and timelines into one section. OAR 860-002-0030 now contains the various ADR rule provisions previously spread out through OAR 860-002-0030 through -0090.

Stakeholder Comments

As noted above, the proposed rules incorporated most suggestions received from stakeholders. One suggestion I did not incorporate, raised earlier by NW Natural and resubmitted during the formal phase, was a request that the ADR option be limited to complaints related to PURPA.[2]

I declined to adopt that suggestion during the informal phase and recommend the Commission similarly decline here. As I explained in my recommendation to open this rulemaking, although the ADR option was originally created for use in PURPA complaints, the Commission made the decision back in docket AR 629 to make ADR available for all complaints. I believe that the ADR option should remain available to promote voluntary settlement and reduce litigation in all non-consumer complaints filed under ORS 756.500. Furthermore, as noted above, the use of ADR is only available with the voluntary consent of all parties.

Proposed Commission Motion:

Adopt the amendments to OAR chapter 860, divisions 002, 021, 034, 036, and 037 related to the use of ADR and mediation in Commission complaint proceedings, as set forth in Attachment 1.

RULE TITLE: Initiation of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Process
RULE SUMMARY: This rule sets forth the process and timeline of the ADR process contemplated in the division 002 rules.

(1) At any time or concurrent with the filing of a complaint under ORS 756.500 that is not a consumer complaint filed under OAR chapter 860 divisions 021, 034, 036 or 037 ~~or a petition for declaratory ruling in a dispute, either party~~ disputing parties may jointly request on a form provided by the Commission the use of ADR to facilitate the informal resolution of a dispute. A request for ADR may be filed at any time~~petition for alternative dispute resolution with the Commission. Before filing such a petition, the petitioner must first provide a written request to the non-petitioning party to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process before the Commission and the non-petitioning party must confirm in~~ ~~writing its agreement to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process. Once both parties confirm in writing their agreement to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process, the Commission will provide mediation services under these rules~~.

~~(2) In the event a party files a complaint or petition for declaratory ruling but does not petition for alternative dispute resolution, the respondent named in the complaint or petition for declaratory ruling may file a petition for alternative dispute resolution under these rules. Before filing such a petition, the respondent must first provide written consent to the petitioner to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process before the Commission and petitioner must confirm in writing its agreement to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process. Once both parties confirm their agreement to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process, the Commission will provide mediation services under these rules.~~

~~(3) A party receiving a written request to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process under section (1) or (2) above must promptly advise in writing whether or not it agrees to participate in the alternative dispute resolution process under these rules. After the party consents to alternative dispute resolution, the petitioning party will promptly file its petition for alternative dispute resolution as provided in these rules.~~

(2) Upon receipt of a request for ADR, an Administrative Law Judge will be appointed to serve as facilitator as workload constraints allow. The parties may agree to hire an outside facilitator rather than seek ADR with the Commission. The parties must share equally the costs of an outside facilitator unless they mutually agree to a different payment arrangement. If an outside facilitator is used by the parties, the parties may decide to use rules governing the ADR process that are different than those contained in OAR chapter 860 division 002.

(3) Within seven business days of written notification that a facilitator has been appointed, each party must file directly with the facilitator and other party supporting materials. Supporting materials must not exceed five pages in length, unless otherwise agreed to by both parties, and must

> (a) Explain the core issues in the dispute and provide a summary of background information, and
> (b) Be accompanied by reference materials intended to aid the facilitator's understanding of the issues. Reference materials, such as an interconnection agreement or draft or partially executed power purchase agreements, will not count towards the five-page limit, and
> (c) Provide the parties' availability over the next 21 business days to participate in an ADR session.

(4) The facilitator will make best efforts to schedule an ADR session to be held within 15 business days after receiving the supporting materials. Subsequent ADR sessions may be scheduled, if both parties agree.

(5) Except as provided by subsection (b), only the parties and the facilitator may attend the ADR session.

> (a) Unless otherwise agreed to by the parties, no more than four persons for each party may attend ADR sessions.
> (b) Parties may jointly request that Commission Staff participate in the ADR process. If appointed to participate, any selected Staff may not participate in adjudication of any subsequent proceedings following ADR related to the complaint. Commission Support Staff may also attend as necessary for the purpose of hosting remote meetings.

(6) The ADR session is led by the facilitator, who will begin the session by introducing parties, reviewing the protocol for the session, and stating the goals for the session. At the outset of the ADR session, each party will be given time to present their view of the dispute without interruption.

> (a) Where appropriate, the facilitator may lead settlement discussions, engage in shuttle diplomacy between parties, or develop proposed settlement concepts after the ADR session for presentation at a subsequent ADR session.
> (b) If an agreement in principle is reached, the parties may request the facilitator to work with the parties to help resolve any disputes that may arise in drafting a final written settlement agreement.

(7) Unless otherwise agreed to in writing by the ADR participants, all written or oral communications made in preparation for or during the ADR process, including but not limited to offers of settlement, must be kept confidential by all ADR participants and may not be used for any purpose other than participation in the ADR process.

(8) For purposes of ORS 192.355(4), the Commission obligates itself to protect from disclosure any document submitted in confidence during the ADR process.

(9) If the parties are unable to reach informal resolution, then the facilitator will promptly file a statement with the Commission concluding the ADR. If an Administrative Law Judge serves as facilitator, that same Administrative Law Judge may not preside over any related complaint and may not discuss the merits of the dispute with other Commission employees.

(10) A party to an ADR process may request the facilitator provide an independent assessment of the issues and potential outcome of the case. If the facilitator agrees, the independent assessment may be provided orally or in writing and treated as privileged information that only the party requesting the assessment may disclose to others. If provided, the independent assessment reflects only the opinion of the facilitator, and it is not binding on the Commission.
