RE: Docket Nos. AR 669, LC 80, LC 85, UE 463, UG 525, UM 2000, UM 2273, UM 2274, UM 2371, UM 2377, UM 2383, UM 2417
NewSun Energy’s Request for Official Notice of the Decision of the Oregon Court of Appeals

NewSun Energy LLC (“NewSun”) respectfully requests that the Oregon Public Utility Commission (“Commission”) and stakeholders in the above-captioned dockets and any other relevant proceeding take official notice pursuant to OAR 860-001-0460 of the decision of the Oregon Court of Appeals issued December 31, 2025 (attached here as Attachment A).

NewSun sought judicial review of the Commission’s decision in UM 2273 on the narrow issue of language contained in Order 24-002 that says, “We affirm our scoping order’s preliminary determination that HB 2021 does not include any explicit requirement for in-state resources, nor does it include any operative provision that requires regulated entities to produce in-state benefits.”¹ NewSun appealed this statement as inconsistent with law and maxims of statutory interpretation, specifically as applied to the policy statements in HB 2021 (ORS 469A.405(2)), which requires consideration of in-state benefits like “meaningful living wage jobs, promoting workforce equity, and increasing energy security and resiliency.”² NewSun appealed on the narrow issue of whether the Commission was able to find the policy statements contained in the law “inoperative.”

The Court of Appeals found that the Commission should give weight to the policy statements. The Court also found that “the commission understands the legislature to have required it to give some weight to the policy considerations identified in ORS 469A.405(2).”³ This is further supported by statements made by Commission counsel at oral argument, which the Court summarized as “it would be reversible error for the commission to conclude that it could completely disregard ORS 469A.405(2) in its evaluation of [clean energy plans (“CEPs”)].”⁴

⁴ Attachment A at 3.

NewSun further notes that in the Commission rulemaking regarding CEPs (AR 669), PacifiCorp and Portland General Electric Company now advocate for not considering community impacts or benefits within the CEP. Instead, they argue that “a more substantive analysis may be better suited to resource procurement efforts.”⁵ The Commission should not entertain requests to delay implementation further and should instead implement the statutory language without delay in all appropriate proceedings. The proper way to implement the policy statements is by considering the “maximum extent” that it is “practicable” to provide such benefits to communities in this state as required by the language in statute.⁶ Such benefits are appropriately considered in the context of all planning and procurement efforts including how the Commission can accelerate renewable development in this state to take advantage of tax credits and reduce emissions in compliance with the Governor’s Executive Orders EO 25-25 and 25-29, and further within the context of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act implementation.

As such, NewSun requests that official notice of this decision be taken, and stakeholders are aware of this decision as the Commission considers CEPs and policy statements in these dockets and beyond. The Commission cannot ignore the policy statements of HB 2021, or any other law; parties should be aware of that and use this decision as a tool to inform their advocacy going forward.

Thank you,

NEWSUN ENERGY LLC

ATTACHMENT A

1 LAGESEN, C. J.

2 Petitioner NewSun Energy, LLC seeks judicial review of orders of the 3 Public Utility Commission entered in Docket UM 2273. The commission opened that 4 docket for the purpose of investigating--through a contested case process--issues related 5 to the implementation of HB 2021 (2021), a measure enacted by the Oregon Legislature
6 to decarbonize Oregon's electric grid.¹ Although the orders addressed a number of issues, 7 petitioner's focus is on one. Petitioner contends that, to the extent the orders addressed
8 the policy provisions contained in ORS 469A.405, the orders rest on a misinterpretation
9 of ORS 469A.405(2). In response, the commission contends that its order reflects no 10 error. Portland General Electric Company and PacifiCorp, who have appeared as 11 respondents along with the commission, contend that the order on review does not 12 constitute a "final order" under ORS 183.480(1) and that the proceeding should be 13 dismissed for that reason. Alternatively, they contend that the commission did not legally 14 err. We affirm.

15 As an initial matter, we reject the contention that the orders are not final 16 orders for purposes of ORS 183.480(1) and conclude that we have jurisdiction to review 17 them.

18 As for the merits, our review is governed by ORS 183.482. ORS
19 756.610(1) (providing for review of final orders as orders in contested cases under ORS

¹ HB 2021 (2021) is codified at ORS 469A.400 et seq., and in amendments to other statutes not at issue here.

1 183.480 to ORS 183.497). In this case, petitioner contends that the agency's orders rest 2 on an erroneous interpretation of ORS 469A.405(2). Accordingly, we review to 3 determine whether "the agency has erroneously interpreted a provision of law and 4 [whether] a correct interpretation compels a particular action." ORS 183.482(8)(a).

5 ORS 469A.405 sets forth the four legislative policy objectives underlying 6 HB 2021. ORS 469A.405(2) provides that one of those policy objectives is to achieve 7 certain ancillary benefits for Oregon communities "to the maximum extent practicable":

8 "That electricity generated in a manner that produces zero greenhouse gas 9 emissions also be generated, to the maximum extent practicable, in a 10 manner that provides additional direct benefits to communities in this state 11 in the forms of creating and sustaining meaningful living wage jobs, 12 promoting workforce equity and increasing energy security and resiliency."

13 ORS 469A.405(2). In this case, petitioner contends that in the orders on review, the 14 commission effectively nullified that policy objective by declaring ORS 469A.405(2) to 15 be inoperative. In support of its reading of the commission's order, petitioner points to 16 the emphasized wording in this sentence: "We affirm our scoping order's preliminary 17 determination that HB 2021 does not include any explicit requirement for in-state 18 resources, nor does it include any operative provisions that requires regulated entities to 19 produce in-state benefits." (Emphasis added.) From the reference to there being no 20 "operative provisions that requires regulated entities to produce in-state benefits" 21 petitioner infers that the commission concluded erroneously that the policy consideration
22 expressed in ORS 469A.405(2) is entitled to no weight in the evaluation of the clean 23 energy plans (CEPs) required to be developed under HB 2021.

1 That inference, although perhaps understandable given the commission's 2 use of the word "operative," is not tenable in the context of the order's next sentence:
3 "However, HB 2021's policy statements do clearly favor maximizing direct benefits to 4 communities in Oregon and we do not intend to ignore these statements when reviewing 5 CEPs." That sentence indicates to us that the commission understands the legislature to 6 have required it to give some weight to the policy considerations identified in ORS
7 469A.405(2) when evaluating CEPs. Indeed, counsel for the commission acknowledged 8 at oral argument that it would be reversible error for the commission to conclude that it 9 could completely disregard ORS 469A.405(2) in its evaluation of CEPs. Under these 10 circumstances, we are not persuaded that the commission's order rests on the erroneous 11 interpretation of ORS 469A.405(2) that petitioner posits. Although we recognize that 12 there may be future disputes about how, precisely, the ORS 469A.405(2) policy 13 considerations should be accounted for in the CEP approval process, it would be 14 premature for us to opine on that question, which belongs to the commission in the first 15 instance.
