This workshop is meant to serve as a level-setting for parties to ensure everyone has a base understanding of Resource Adequacy (RA) in the region and state and the relevant issues. The workshop will include a presentation by NWPP covering an overview of the regional program and providing an update on the progress made over the past year. Time for questions and discussion will follow. Staff hopes the discussion will provide parties with better insights as to how a state-level program can collaboratively exist alongside NWPP's efforts. Staff also invites any party who is interested in providing a presentation on RA concerns, RA planning process, straw-proposal recommendations, or other relevant information to do so at this workshop.

Please e-mail me at scott.gibbens@puc.oregon.gov by August 9, 2021, if you would like to present so that we can ensure there is sufficient time for everyone. Staff estimates those who do present will have approximately 20-30 minutes to do so, but will adjust as necessary based on interest in presenting.

Staff will circulate a proposed agenda for the workshop following determination of presenters.
